Whoops-Joe's toothbrush scrubbed the second paragraph off the page!
So, here's our revised version:

Starting with today's first newsletter, we are pleased to have a new way to communicate with our friends and clients. This will enable us to easily inform you of new services, new staff members, helpful hints, and seasonal specials.

Also, we have launched our Web site: <http://www.helpinghandscentral.com>
As you will see, it gives more detailed information about our services, our methods and how we work. In the coming weeks, we also will add a link to our indispensable Helping Hands List, a resource guide for the best of everything for "Home Clean Home."

Joe and I are often asked where we go to find our favorite products and services. After 20 years of researching and finding the finest for our clients (and ourselves), we have discovered excellent sources for all kinds of things. From dry cleaners to dog walkers, from handymen to babysitters to tonic water and towels that soak up spills, we have amassed a terrific list, and we'd like to share it with you.

We invite you to visit the site, check out the links, and give us your feedback. Just think, you can become our "helping hands," so that we can better serve you.

Our best,

Debrah
